The American Geophysical Union is accepting nominations for its 2021 journalism awards through 15 April 2021.

- David Perلمان Award for Excellence in Science Journalism—News, recognizing excellence in science news reporting, generally produced under deadline pressure of one week or less.
- Walter Sullivan Award for Excellence in Science Journalism—Features, recognizing excellence in science feature reporting, generally produced under a deadline of longer than one week.
- Robert C. Cowen Award for Sustained Achievement in Science Journalism, recognizing a journalist or team of journalists who have, over a period of at least 15 years, made significant, lasting, outstanding and consistent contributions to Earth and space science journalism for the general public, including reporting, writing, editing or producing.

The Perlman and Sullivan awards each honor specific stories reported by journalists in the past year (i.e. 2021 awards honor 2020 stories). Journalists are welcome to nominate their own work for these awards, or someone may nominate a story on the reporter’s behalf. Nominations may be from any country, in any language (English translation required), and in any news medium, except books. Eligible news stories must be about one or more of the scientific disciplines represented by AGU. A nominee may submit only one entry for each award in a given year (i.e. one entry for the Perlman and one entry for the Sullivan). Each award consists of a plaque and a $5,000 award.

2. You will then be directed to a login screen. You will need to login to the system using your AGU account. If you do not have an AGU account, you will need to create one by selecting the "Create a new account" option and filling out the required information.

Note: If your organization is not listed or can't be found, please enter Organization Not Listed in the "Organization Name" field and fill out the "Suggest Your Organization" field with the name of your organization.

4. After logging in, you will see the home page for the journalism awards. This year, AGU is accepting nominations for the Perlman, Sullivan and Cowen awards. To submit a nomination, click on “Click here to submit a nomination.”

The screenshot shows the AGU Journalism Awards website. At the top, there is a purple banner with the text "JOURNALISM AWARDS" in large white letters and the "AGU HONORS" logo below it. A navigation bar contains links for "HOME", "MY ACCOUNT", "SUBMIT", and "POLICIES". On the left side, there is a section titled "Login to Complete a Nomination or to Access Judging Panel" with a "Continue Log in" button. The main content area features a heading "The American Geophysical Union is accepting nominations for its 2021 journalism awards through 15 April 2021." followed by a bulleted list of three awards: the David Perlmán Award for Excellence in Science Journalism—News, the Walter Sullivan Award for Excellence in Science Journalism—Features, and the Robert C. Cowen Award for Sustained Achievement in Science Journalism. A red-bordered button with the text "Click here to submit a nomination" is prominently displayed. Below this, a paragraph explains the nomination process, including that nominations are for stories from the past year, can be self-nominations or on behalf of others, and that each award includes a plaque and a $5,000 award.
